Atlantic Coordinating Committee on Crime Prevention and Community Safety (ACC)

Leading Atlantic Canadians
in Building Safer Communities

January 2010

History

The ACC has a long history of supporting crime prevention and community safety in the Atlantic provinces. This group of key partners began meeting in the early 1980s.

The ACC is a unique partnership of individuals and organizations committed to building safer communities. Each Atlantic province is represented on the ACC by people from the criminal justice system, law enforcement agencies, crime prevention organizations, public legal education associations, governments and other groups.

The ACC accomplishes its valuable work through volunteer commitment, in-kind support and project funding.

Mandate

- ◇ Encourage and facilitate cooperative and collaborative efforts among crime prevention practitioners and groups in our region
- ◇ Lead Atlantic Canadians in the development and implementation of crime prevention and community safety policies and practices
- ◇ Encourage and promote liaison within and between the public and private sectors in all matters relating to crime prevention and community safety
- ◇ Maintain a resource centre for crime prevention information

Halifax, Nova Scotia, 2007

Special Projects

The ACC has undertaken several projects over the years, such as:

“Building Crime Prevention Knowledge in Atlantic Canada” (2009-2012).

This project, funded by the National Crime Prevention Centre, focuses on building and sharing knowledge about effective crime prevention programs in Atlantic Canada. You can find more information about these model and promising programs at <http://www.publicsafety.gc.ca>
